

MG 334 - Corporate Responsibilities and Ethics

3 Credit Hours

This course explores business responsibility from opposing theoretical and managerial perspectives. It applies theories of ethics to various case studies in business focusing on moral issues in advertising and sales, hiring and promotion, financial management, corporate pollution, product safety, and international decision-making.