

RES 803 - Research Design III

3 Credit Hours

This course develops knowledge in qualitative research methods. Students will gain a thorough understanding of applicable theories, methods, and limitations of qualitative research methods. They will demonstrate expertise in assessing published research reliant on qualitative methods and be able to assess the applicability of these methods to their own proposed areas of research.