

RES 885 - Project Research Design and Procedures

3 Credit Hours

A course preparing students to conduct upper-level graduate research and to write effectively. This course gives the proper foundation for writing the D. Min. project. Required of all D.Min. students. This course is offered as a session course and requires a one-week on-campus intensive residency during the class in addition to pre-residency and post-residency coursework.