

MFP 520 - Wealth Management I

3 Credit Hours

This course introduces an array of financial instrument investment alternatives and their risk profiles including debt and equity securities, options and futures contracts. The course will cover the theoretical concepts of modern portfolio theory with a focus on expected return characteristics at the security and portfolio level. Various investment strategies and valuation models will be discussed to develop an understanding of investment principles and practices.