

PH 405 - Emergency Preparedness

3 Credit Hours

Given an emergency situation with public health implications, such as a disease outbreak, massive flooding, or bioterrorism threats, students will learn why emergencies and disasters are problems in which the public health system must be an integral participant, and to identify the critical components necessary for an effective response.

Prerequisites

PH 301