

PS 240 - Motivation and Emotion

3 Credit Hours

This course in motivation and emotion explores the traditional biological, social, and cognitive factors that shape the broad spectrum of human motivational behaviors including sleep, hunger, love, and work. In addition to traditional theories, emerging theories of human motivation and emotion will be presented.

Prerequisites

PS 101