

MKT 610 - Consumer Behavior

3 Credit Hours

This course introduces students to the theories and concepts underpinning consumer behavior with a view to understanding how these can be applied to marketing decisions. Students will be exposed to the elements of motivation, perceptions, attitudes, consumer psychology, and how these influence consumers to act.