

EL 305 - Embedded Systems

3 Credit Hours

This course designs embedded microcontrollers for practical applications. Students will learn microcontroller theory and architecture, including standard internal functionality such as A/D converters and serial Interfaces. Students will receive hands-on education involving the design, construction, and programming of microcontroller-based projects.

Prerequisites

EL 205